Dear Hiring Manager,

Look no further you've found the UX Designer/Developer you've been looking for. It is with great interest that I am forwarding my resume for consideration as a Designer within your Department. Given my years of experience as a lead Developer with various certifications and talents, I would be an excellent addition to your team. Please consider the following highlights from my resume:

- Fluent in working on multiple projects simultaneously, meeting tough deadlines while maintaining the same level of precision and detail across all projects, and exceeding client expectations.

- Excellent team player excelling in group projects and team training. Exceptional skills building relationships with clients and coworkers.

- A remarkable problem solver with perceptive written, communication, and presentation skills. An active listener with a superior memory.

- Constantly obtaining certifications, researching new ways to perfect my aptitude; becoming a better developer exceeding previous work and projects.

My experience gained over the years will provide your company with a serious, self-motivated, and flexible professional who knows what is needed to get the job done. I am both influential and unrelenting in any task or project.

As an analytical, solutions-driven professional, I have a strong desire to exceed expectations, delivering innovative and tactical efforts to achieve company and team goals. Implementing a fun, creative, atmosphere that influences the ideas of everyone.

I look forward to the opportunity to discuss my experience and share with you in person my work giving live demonstrations of my design and full-stack developing capabilities. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Best regards,

Emmanuel Barry Moore
